OTHER SUGGESTIONS ABOUT IMMIGRATION.

In our article on immigration hereto fore was published an error of our own made in copying from our manuscript of figures which we wish to correct. In that article assuming each immigrant to be worth to the State as soon as he settled $800, we said that the amount thus received by Wisconsin would be $1,822,500, and that North Carolina had likewise been benefited $16,145. We intended to write that Wisconsin had received $1,822,500 and North Carolina $1,822,500. The proportion of North Carolina's loss is the same; but when the full amount is set forth, it is more easily understood how much we lose by not making greater and adequate efforts to secure immigration into our state.

No State in the Union has a better situation in the temperate belt than North Carolina. And notwithstanding the boast of other States as to the richness of their soil, we believe we have lands as fertile as those of any other State.

Where will you find deeper or richer soil than in the counties of Hyde, Washington, Tyrrell, Beaufort, Currituck, Pasquotank and others washed by the waters of Albemarle and Pamlico sounds? or where will you find better agricultural lands than in Pitt, Edgecombe, Lenoir, Greene and many other counties we could mention? and when we strike Chatman and the belt of counties that contain our mineral wealth we find a section that, take it all in all, is not surpassed by any State.

The ice mountain below the American fall of Niagara has been lessened but little by the hot weather, and still looms up some seventy feet high to the summit, and last week foishly young ladies, fearing to trust their shoes on the ice, deliberately took off their shoes and stockings and scaled the mountain in their bare feet.

No slight commotion has been caused among the pleasure-loving scions of the people by the ice, and in order to hasten the closing of all dancing resorts by midnight, a measure equivalent to their entire abolition. It is said that hundreds will be ruined by this decree, and the proprietor of one temple, Terpsichore has already comitted suicide.

In 1857 Secretary Evans demanded military usurpation in words a mile long. In 1870 he earnestly approves the consolidation of the purse and the sword in the Presidential office and the assignment of absolute powers to the President. He has sold his soul to the minority Republican party to overturn the Union and the Republic must, and will, meet with overwhelming defeat.

The whipping-post in Delaware is no terrible. A report of recent public doings at Newark says:

"A Prince, a dairymaid and a child,

"A Prince, the second son of the Crown Prince, now in the Asiatic waters following his profession as a sailor, is talked of as being very much desired at court here. The death of Prince Frederick Charles, and the more ambitious of Prince Albert. Now,

"The analyzed result of the battle of Prince Henry of Prussia is extremely precarious; and so is the succession to the throne in these days, when a young Prince is away at sea, where ships and men are sometimes liable to go down against them with the man he hates."

The Heir of Prussia's Throne.

Baltimore Sun's Berlin Letter.

Unclesy is the head that only wears but wants a crown. I am not sure but the good old Emperor of Prussia would be much more happy than he is if his son the Prince was amiable and pleasant. Prince Henry of Prussia, the second son of the Crown Prince, now in the Asiatic waters following his profession as a sailor, is talked of as being very much desired at court here. The death of Prince Frederick Charles, and the more ambitious of Prince Albert. Now,

"The analyzed result of the battle of Prince Henry of Prussia is extremely precarious; and so is the succession to the throne in these days, when a young Prince is away at sea, where ships and men are sometimes liable to go down against them with the man he hates."

But as it is we are doing but little in this direction. We give a statement of the number of immigrants that arrived in the United States during the months of October, November and December, 1858, which we find to be 31,374, the number for an equal space of time since has been much increased, but we have not the statement before us. Of this number, we are informed that in all the Southern ports:

New Orleans, La., received 750

Saint Marks, Fla., " 5

Gulfport, Miss., " 6

Galveston, Texas, " 6

Baltimore, Md., " 73

Total 1,682

The others numbering 25,362 were received at Northern ports. These figures will show that the South is doing but little to encourage immigration. The tide is on the increase now and we should put more of our energies to receive our portion of its benefits. Every effort should be made to induce the immigrants to land at our own ports, Norfolk, Wilmington, Charleston and the others, where they can readily obtain good homes, good lands and as healthy locations as the world can afford.

This Workingmen's party of California appears to have split. It was suggested by a number of persons in sympathy with the new regime in California that the present was a fit time for the so-called Workingmen's party to disband and retire from political existence. It was evidently in a minority in the State, and it went into a general election there were so many opposed to Kearney that it would be defeated. "Let bygones be bygones," said they, "Dissolve the Workingmen's party, and organize in its stead a new party composed of all the elements who favor having the new constitution carried out in its true spirit." It is upon this rock that the party of Kearney is going to pieces. The Workingmen clubs of San Francisco still cling to the old name, and will take no new party in the first while, in the country, these clubs are dissolving and reorganizing as members of the "New Constitution" party.

As for the two old parties, each of them is decidedly in a minority, and has no time what to do. The Republicans are silent, and likely to insist upon straight-out Republican nominations, even if they are slaughtered. The Democrats, on the other hand, have not yet decided on their course. They will hold their convention in July, after all the others have met, probably for the purpose of making a union or alliance with some other party.

SENATOR THURMAN goes to North Carolina to deliver an address before the State University on June 6th. Of course it will be a political pilgrimage as he can make it. "Sponsoring ovacons" will abound, and his platform for 1859 will be exposed to public view.—N. Y. Tribune.

We feel authorized to say that it will be impossible for SENATOR THURMAN to attend the commencement exercises at Chapel Hill. Pro tempor President of the Senate the absence of Vice-President Wheeler compels him to remain a trifle past of duty. In accepting the invitation to deliver the annual address of commencement SENATOR THURMAN was not actuated by the motives charged by the meadowlarks Tribune, and so far from a "political pilgrimage" it would have been a visit to his own people who honor and love the great Democratic leader. For he is bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh.

BRIEF REMARKS.

One of the most agreeable signs of the times is the steady increase of European immigration at this port, the arrivals at this port alone last week reaching nearly 6,000. The indications are favorable to a large increase throughout the summer months. Most of the steamship agents, we are told, have wires from their agents to that effect. There can be no surer a manifestation of the returning tide of prosperity than this—New York Bulletin.

When General Crook released Standing Bear at Omaha, the old Indian said to Col. Magruder, of Baltimore, "God I am a free man once more, and I shall never forget those who have helped me. I would like to find some government land and do a homestead like the white people do. I am getting old, but can still work. The good men have sent here (by Mr. Seward) with a view to make peace. In the course of a day's discussion in my library, he asked me a great many questions, among others, the question:

"Can you whip McClellan?" who was then lying with an army of two hundred thousand men within six miles of Richmond, confronted by General Lee.

I told him in reply that I felt sure we could and would, and if the Emperor of the French would open the ports and keep them open, we would march to New York, and not ask the loan of a man or a dollar. With great animation he sprang to his feet and said in French:

"It is such the temper of your people you are invincible. But why do you think you will whip McClellan?"

I answered: "Because the President and General Lee tell me they believe we will." Then he added: "But do you know how many men are bearing upon Richmond?"

I replied: "The President thinks there are 200,000. General Lee thinks not so many, but more than 150,000."

To which he replied, "They are both mistaken. There are 225,000. General Lee is entirely and entirely right."

He added: "Can't this war be stopped?"

I said: "I suppose that is impossible, for Mr. Seward would not permit us to do without the abolition of slavery, and it would be useless to propose that to the men from the extreme west."

He replied: "You are mistaken. If you will only return and acknowledge the flag, Mr. Seward will permit you to return without any conditions."

"What?" said I, "With the institution of slavery?"

"Yes," he said.

I then said: "But there is yet one thing more to be considered. To use violence to obtain what you want may succeed with respect to the northeastern boundary question of 'indemnity' for the past, but we must have security for the future. We cannot live hereafter in the state of harassment and excitement in which we lived for some years past."

To which he replied: "You are mistaken. If you will only return and acknowledge the flag, Mr. Seward will permit you to return without any conditions."

"What?" said I, "With the institution of slavery?"

"Yes," he said.

I then said: "But there is yet one thing more to be considered. To use violence to obtain what you want may succeed with respect to the middle of the floor to bring him to the wall, and with that held firmly rooted in his soul, to tip his chair back and sit down on his jingling vein.

Dry goods clerks often indulge in boat races, but oarsmen never indulge in dry goods stores. This only proves that boodly goods clerks and scullers have more brains than they are generally credited with.

If the Moderation Society, whose chief object seems to be to do away with the pernicious habit of "treating," managed to do without the abolition of slavery, it would be a good idea.

It is evident that the man from the West is not to be trifled with.

I said: "I suppose that is impossible, for Mr. Seward would not permit us to do without the abolition of slavery, and it would be useless to propose that to the men from the extreme west."

He replied: "You are mistaken. If you will only return and acknowledge the flag, Mr. Seward will permit you to return without any conditions."

We cannot live hereafter in the state of harassment and excitement in which we lived for some years past."

Then drawing his hand across a piece of paper lying upon the library table, upon the opposite side of which we were sitting, he said:

"My dear friend, allow me to write to you. Write to the throne an open question in the order of following the Crown Prince. There are here Prince George and Prince Alexander of Prussia, two venerable, stately and well-smoked old bachelors, who have no children, and are anxious to rule over Germany."

Besides these there are the two male heirs, the sons of the Crown Prince, the ambitious son of Prince Frederick Charles, and the more ambitious of Prince Albert. Now,

"The analyzed result of the battle of Prince Henry of Prussia is extremely precarious; and so is the succession to the throne in these days, when a young Prince is away at sea, where ships and men are sometimes liable to go down against them with the man he hates."

A Blast of Powder.
John T. Ross, employed by the city, and another man, under the charge of Mr. Best, were out at the city rock quarry yesterday, blasting rock for the stones that did not prove satisfactory, and Ross said he would load the hole again and "blow it this time." He swabbed it out and then poured in a pound of powder. The tampon was ready and laid over the powder. Ross raised his iron rod, and the explosion was a loud and awful boom and a cloud of black smoke was the result. Mr. Best was shocked by the concussion, but did not lose his presence of mind. Rushing to the side of the hole, he found a hole in black with powder and terribly burnt. He was taken to his home. His eyes and face are in a terrible condition, but it is thought he will recover.

A Thrilling Scene.

It was not to be supposed there was much spirit in him. He had been maledict according to his own words, laid down in all works of equine architecture, and there was nothing in the line of superabundant flesh or padding of any sort to mar the picturesqueness of his build; his ribs formed Tufts, creases, and his spine represented Hogarth's vision of beauty. And then his spirit! It was well for the establishment that no weak-armed woman was acting as engineer. He had been standing at the corner of Main and Market streets, the occupants of the wood chariot being engaged in conversation as to their relative adaptability as a whisky reservoir, when Rosinae picked up his ears as though he smelled the battle from afar off, and recklessly dashed down the road, the chariot moving at a mile an hour. The charioteer grasped the reins and cried "Whoa!" The other man tried to pray—at least that is the charitable view to take of it. The harness animal's heels adopted the motto of "Excelsior," and there is no knowing how the affair would have terminated if the beast had not fortunately conquered his insane impulse. He reluctantly planted his feet in the center of the road, thus informing the hinder portion that if it wanted to go on it would have to do so on its own responsibility; ready hands went to the rescue, and the dire danger was averted.

The Celebrated Seven Springs Iron Alum Mass.

This is decidedly the most useful, beneficial and efficacious Family Medicine ever placed within the reach of any people. Its reputation extends far and wide, and its great popularity is due entirely to its own merits. For relieving Sick and Nervous Headache, it may be truly said, to have no equal, and is a safe and certain remedy for their troubles. Mothers and daughters have long since discovered in its use a "panacea" for their worst ills; and now we have the testimonies of two eminent ministers of the gospel, from South Carolina, Alice Macrae, and Lucy E. Stanfield of North Carolina.
